Career

I qualified in 1985 and became a partner in Lee & Priestley in 1996 following experience at a national firm. My practice areas include employment law and commercial litigation/dispute resolution.

My employment law practice is significant but I have retained a commercial litigation practice as much of my employment work is of a litigious nature, requiring negotiating skills and detailed knowledge of CPR.

Employment Experience

Since 1985 I have advised on a wide range of employment issues including general advice on day to day employment matters, drafting agreements, dealing with trade union issues and collective disputes, including strike actions. I have represented clients at the Employment

Tribunal and dealt with a large number of breach of contract claims, confidentiality actions and restraint of trade disputes. Over recent years I have dealt with a significant number of senior employee terminations, both on behalf of the employer and the employee.

Commercial Litigation

On qualification I dealt with a wide range of commercial litigation issues. The focus of my practice is now on corporate issues, including warranty claims, shareholder disputes and director disputes. This is supported by some general contract work, intellectual property claims and defamation.
