Tim Wallis is available for commercial mediation online and in person in the North-West, East Anglia, East Midlands and London.

In addition to his mediation and other ADR activities in the personal injury and clinical negligence fields across England and Wales he mediates across a diverse range of business and personal disputes in the areas of Agriculture, Property, Commercial, IT, Wills, Trust and Inheritance.

What Tim Wallis brings to a mediation:

Extensive professional experience. Tim has over 25 years' experience as a mediator, as a solicitor in many areas of litigation, as a business leader and as a chair at partners' meetings (law firm senior partner) and board meetings (ADR and IT companies).

People-focused, commercially minded. With a natural ability to connect with people and build bridges, Tim also has the utmost clarity of purpose, able to see the bigger legal and business pictures and steer individuals to resolutions that satisfy both personal and commercial ends.

Recognised mediation expert. Tim writes the ADR section in the volume 2 of the White Book, has, provided ADR input to the Civil Justice Council for many years and is now a member of its ADR Judicial Liaison Committee. He also runs mediation training courses.

The combination of Tim's experience as a successful commercial litigator and the understanding that comes from mediating disputes for many years means that he is well equipped to facilitate settlement in any commercial or agricultural context. He brings technical expertise to the dynamics of the negotiations together with a direct and determined approach that gets results. His qualities of patience, perseverance, empathy and understanding are important features of his mediation style.

He particularly enjoys mediating multi-party and complex cases.

For many years Tim was based in the North West of England and although he has now moved to Lincolnshire he maintains his connection with the region travelling back there to visit friends, mediate (often with Cumbrian farmers) and walk in the incomparable Lake District.

In the north-west Tim Wallis continues to mediate with:

- Cumbria Mediation Solutions, where he has established a track record of helping people find out-of-court settlements in the most difficult disputes (www.mediationcumbria.com) and

- North West Mediation Solutions, a specialist mediation provider, matching highly qualified and experienced mediators with a range of commercial clients and individuals throughout the UK. (www.nwmediationsolutions.co.uk).

Tim also provides mediation training and he and also consults on mediation and other ADR processes and schemes.

What others say:

“deeply impressive”

“he’s a very measured individual and he’s good at bridging gaps between people,”

“he was very calm, collected and quietly effective.”

“a strong mediator and broke the impasse in a difficult case.”

“We have no doubt that settlement would not have been achieved today but for the input and discipline of the mediation, so ably conducted by Tim Wallis.”

“Tim is clearly a very experienced mediator and was able to put the parties at ease in a potentially explosive situation.”

“I would like to offer my sincere thanks on behalf of myself and my client for the superb manner in which Tim Wallis handled the mediation. My client responded very well to the process, was very much put at ease and felt very involved!”

“Experienced, calm and progressive.”

“Very authoritative; very reassuring.”

“As I explained – this was my first mediation; as a 19 years “veteran” of litigation I am now a “convert” to mediation!

“A process which is geared to the needs of the claimant but which allows the lawyer to advise fully and frankly is to be recommended.”

Fellow of the Civil Mediation Council <https://civilmediation.org>

In addition to his commercial mediation practice, Tim also mediates personal injury and medical negligence claims for damages. He is Chair, director and mediator of specialist mediation provider Trust Mediation and has mediated in this sector for over 25 years.
