Biography

Laricelle Fouchee is a CMC Registered Workplace Mediator and Civil & Commercial Mediator, an IMI Qualified Mediator, and a Family Mediator Working Towards Accreditation.

Laricelle holds an LLM (Distinction) in Mediation and International Commercial Dispute Resolution from Newcastle University. She combines mediation experience with a professional background in law, employment relations and human resource management. Prior to relocating to the United Kingdom, she practised as an Attorney of the High Court of South Africa, representing clients in employment-related disputes and complex legal proceedings, including Labour Court and Commission for Conciliation, Mediation and Arbitration matters.

Through Fouchee Mediation, Laricelle provides mediation services across workplace, civil and commercial disputes, supporting individuals, professionals and organisations in resolving conflict constructively and effectively.

Her approach is grounded in impartiality, respect and open communication. She is passionate about helping parties navigate difficult conversations, explore options and reach practical, sustainable outcomes. She believes mediation provides an opportunity for people to be heard, understand differing perspectives and develop solutions that meet their needs and interests.

Alongside her Workplace and Civil & Commercial mediation practice, Laricelle has completed FMC Foundation Training through Veritas Mediation Academy and is developing her Family Mediation practice as a Family Mediator Working Towards Accreditation.

Laricelle conducts mediations online and in person throughout the United Kingdom.
